

Field Worker's Song

Sylvia Kegel

I'm held by love, I'm carried by grace
Your word is my compass while i walk through a maze
Amazing compassion is the fruit that I gain
I keep sowing and growing, You send sunbeams and rain

Although I see darkness and pain and incomplete pictures
I want you to reign over all this heart of mine
I know You'll finish the good work You've started in me
Lord, I want to say thank You by the end of every day

Keep me on Your path, not only walking
But dancing and laughing - towards the light
Remind me to praise You, not only with words
But rather with songs and by doing what's right

You're better than everything I could imagine
You're bigger than all I could stumble upon
You're the best thing that ever happened to me
In You're light I see and in You're love I'm free

In You're light I see and in You're love I'm free

I don't ever wanna stop living with You
You keep me alive
I don't ever wanna stop following You
You are all that matters
And the love of my life
